Dr. Rick Kirschner

This entertaining team will show your audience how to get better results with the problem people in their lives!

AN INTERVIEW YOUR MARKET WILL LOVE!

Meet Dr. Rick Brinkman and Dr. Rick Kirschner, coauthors of the bestselling audiotape series
'How To Deal With Difficult People,' and the book 'Dealing With People You Can't Stand!'
Articulate, engaging, informative and FUNNY!
Your audience will love them!

Yes, they're funny. But their comedy and theatrics are not just for show. Rick and Rick's philosophy is that learning shouldn't be boring or painful. "After years of formal torture ... um ... education, we realized that the only things we remembered were the things we enjoyed learning about!" They take this lesson seriously - and the fact that this lively team is sought after by corporations across the world proves it. The skills they teach not only make sense, they work - immediately!

ABOUT THESE AUTHORS

Dr. Rick Brinkman and Dr. Rick Kirschner have developed an excellent reputation among their peers as physicians, speakers, and trainers, earning the goodwill and trust of people in industry, healthcare, education, and government. In 1988 they were among only 15 people chosen by the Tom Peters Group and CareerTrack, Inc. to present the revolutionary 'In Search of Excellence' and 'Thriving on Chaos' training programs. Theirs is a unique presentation style of Educating through Entertainment using stand-up comedy, hard-hitting stories, and dramatic skits. Working individually and together, they speak to some forty thousand people a year, all across America as well as in Great Britain, Canada, Singapore, Hong Kong, Malaysia, Indonesia, the Philippines, and Australia.

Drs. Brinkman and Kirschner together operate R&R Productions, a training and consulting firm. Their background and work as holistic physicians and counselors brought them to the recognition that effective communication is the foundation of healthy relationships and quality of life. In 1980 they began their professional speaking career with workshops on that subject.

Dr. Rick Kirschner brings a diverse background to his work. He played Rock n' Roll music in Hollywood in the '60s; was a manager in a scrap iron and steel recycling business while raising Arabian horses in Kentucky in the early '70s; then specialized in the treatment of stress disorders in private practice after earning his doctorate in Naturopathic medicine. Rick lives with his wife and teenage daughter in Ashland, Oregon.

Dr. Rick Brinkman lists his greatest honor as being the first kid to hit a homerun over the new fence at Kisseena Park in NYC. After earning his doctorate in Naturopathic medicine, he specialized in the psychology of health, exploring the mental and emotional root causes of physical illness. Rick lives with his wife and teenage daughter near Portland, Oregon.
